Recuerdos III: Memories of Guadalupe County Daniel B. Flores

. Each book in the Recuerdos series is composed of a series of vignettes that tell a particular story about Guadalupe county's rich and colorful past. The vignettes are each presented as a separate story and are often illustrated with a period photograph. Newspaper articles are also used in many of the vignettes. Most of the articles are from New Mexico newspapers, but some are from articles that were published in newspaper from other states. Those articles show that at that point in time the events that were happening in our county were significant enough to attract widespread coverage. Some of the vignettes are about individuals in the county whose lives were of enough significance to have played an important role in the county's passage through time. Those individuals contributed to the growth of the area. Some were government officials while others were businessmen. One particular vignette is lengthy and is a hodgepodge of events from the wild and wooly days of the county. One of those events dates back to the time of Billy the Kid. Others portray the trials and tribulations of everyday life in the early days of the county. All of those stories certainly contribute to the wild and wooly days of life in early Guadalupe county. Included in Recuerdos III are stories about Newkirk, Anton Chico, Santa Rosa, Tucumcari, Puerto de Luna, Vaughn, East Vaughn, and Dilia.
